

UNDERWOOD

Business and Corporate

Underwood's Business and Corporate Law Practice Group represents business and corporate clients of all sizes, ranging from small start-up companies to large, expansive companies with established international operations. The range of industries in which Underwood's business attorneys are involved is also expansive, commonly including, but not limited to, agribusiness, banking and financial services, construction, economic development, insurance, motor vehicle dealerships, oil, gas, and mineral exploration and development, public finance, restaurants, and retail services.

Our range of services for business and corporate clients touches upon every stage of a business's lifecycle. We handle issues concerning formation or acquisition, planning, structure, corporate governance, financing, expansion, and disposition. Underwood navigates transactions ranging from simple real estate sales and asset purchases to multi-state mergers and acquisitions.

Our lawyers collaborate to provide cost-effective assistance in today's challenging commercial environment. By utilizing expertise from attorneys in our various practice groups, including Agriculture, Finance, Oil and Gas, Real Estate, Health Care, Renewable Energy, and others, Underwood is able to devote substantial expertise to a wide variety of clients in almost any industry.
