

UNDERWOOD

Immigration

Underwood's Immigration Law Practice Group provides comprehensive services relating to both U.S. immigration and visas and foreign immigration and visas.

As immigration issues become more and more politically charged, so the laws change. Our immigration attorneys stay abreast of these changes and can help in all aspects of immigration law, including family-based immigration and visas, employment-based immigration and visas, investor opportunities, management transferees, special visas for religious workers, health care professionals, and cultural exchange workers, and foreign immigration, visas, and travel for U.S. citizens.

Further, in collaboration with Underwood's Employment Law Practice Group, we offer immigration policy guidance to employers, including, but not limited to, advice and counsel and audit services relating to Form I-9 compliance.
