

Bankruptcy and Creditors' Rights Litigation

Underwood's bankruptcy and creditors' rights lawyers bring decades of experience to a statewide practice that encompasses all facets of debt enforcement, workout, insolvency, and bankruptcy proceedings. Underwood lawyers, who have a profound knowledge of the bankruptcy code and applicable procedures, appear in bankruptcy courts and state and federal courts throughout Texas and the Southwest; however, cost effective resolution of distressed debt is always a goal.

Working with lawyers from Underwood's litigation, banking, and agribusiness practice groups, Underwood also brings unique insight to more specialized scenarios such as agricultural and farm credit workouts and distressed energy assets.

We routinely handle all forms of foreclosure and other debt enforcement remedies both judicial and non-judicial. This practice group also includes lawyers devoted to navigating consumer and individual issues, including those impacted by recent state and federal legislation.

On a selective basis, our lawyers may also represent commercial or agricultural debtors in reorganization proceedings – we have successfully confirmed multiple Chapter 11 plans, including those for publicly traded companies and entities with complex tax considerations.
